The compact one in the XL family

The STAVANGER XL2000 is ideal for a colour coded system, as it is not only available in yellow, but also in red and blue. For example, the blue one can be equipped for respiratory and the red one for circulatory emergencies. With the optionally available individual hook-and-loop closure, the backpacks can be marked for differentiation. The winch loop on the upper side means that it is ideal for height rescue. The compartment for the immobilization collar is located between front and inner body.
